

Video Games: Art, Design and Interaction

Have you ever thought about why video games are so fun to play?

Do you think video games are a waste of time? Or are they works of art?

If you want to come and talk about different elements that make video games one of the most popular media today, and experience the beauty of game design for yourself, this soph sem is for you! Together we'll look at the psychological impact of various games, how art and sound affect the playing experience, and the history of interaction design. Gaming enthusiasts of all levels welcome!
